Conditions of Participating in Radio Controlled Model Warship Combat

Warning!

Radio Controlled Model Warships use compressed, inert gas to fire steel ball bearings in sizes up to ¼” (6.35mm) in diameter!

It is a condition of participating in AusBG Radio Controlled Model Warship Combat activities, as a spectator or AusBG member, that the AusBG, its office bearers, committee members, members and servants or agents, are absolved from all liability that may arise from personal injury to the undersigned (whether fatal or not) or damage to or destruction of property belonging to or in the care of the undersigned (including vehicles), however caused, arising from the activity of Radio Controlled Model Warship Combat, including the retrieval of ships - whether sunk or damaged or returning to port, or any other part of a combat meeting.

It is also a condition of participating that full safety eye protection (that has side protection) must be worn by the undersigned when the verbal command “Safety Glasses On” is given, and not removed until the announcement that “Safety Glasses May Be Removed”, or similar, is made.

I the undersigned, have read, or have had read to me, the above conditions and, having understood them, agree to them and consent to participating in Radio Controlled Model Warship Combat activities.
